It has labored to secure protection for the legally acquired rights of our nationals resident in that country. It has stood, and it stands, upon the principles contained in the program enunciated by Secretary of State Hughes, convinced that friendly relations established upon such terms will possess the essential quality of permanence. It believes that temporary adjustments would prove harmful to both peoples, that fundamental questions at issue must be settled before these two neighbors can live together in harmony upon a basis of goodwill and real reciprocity. First of any of the organized bodies which have to do with the protection of American interests in Mexico, the American Association of Mexico made public announcement that it was opposed to the recognition of any Mexican government until just and fair treatment and proper legal status were assured for such interests. Previous to the announcement of the Hughes policy, on January 31, 1921, this Association published its program, embodying this principle. It was actuated by a desire to see justice done; in no sense was this organization moved by a spirit of hostility to Mexico and things Mexican. This Association has the most friendly interest in the Mexican people; it is the enemy of no individual Mexican administration; it does not advocate armed intervention in Mexico, nor has it done so in the past. As an American organization the field of this Association is restricted; it must confine its work to those things...
