

Fellowship of Angels: The English Writings of Richard Rolle (Paperback)

By Henrietta Hicks

GRACEWING, United Kingdom, 2008. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 208 x 136 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.RICHARD ROLLE of HAMPOLE was born about 1300 at Thornton-le-Dale near Pickering. He studied at Oxford, but left the university without a degree in order to become a hermit, Now-a-days too many are consumed with a desire for Knowledge rather than for love, yet all their study should have been directed to this end, so that they might be consumed by the love of God . . . an old wife can be more expert in the love of God, and less worldly, than your theologian with his useless studying. Richard was helped with bed and board while he preached and wrote on the love of God, and the Holy Name of Jesus, and he moved from place to place as circumstances demanded. He finally settled at Hampole, near Doncaster, and became friend and spiritual director to a convent of nuns, who regarded him with affection, and after his death prepared an Office and Vita recounting his miracles For after he will have been canonised by the Church . Not all approved of this freelance, wandering holy man,...
