Excerpt: . . . cravat in which his neck was swathed. Fast as he came, it was evident that nothing escaped his attention; here he noticed an olen panel in a fanners fence, and there the leaking gut ter of a townsmans house; he cast a searching glance at every horse or ox he met, and courteously returned the greeting of young and old. As he was recogmzed by the anxious men in council, they rose instinctively from their seats on the court-house green, and an expression of welcome relief rose to every face. When one of them said, Let us consult Mr. Jefferson, he received no reply; he had only uttered what was in everv mans heart at the same moment. So they invited their illustrious neighbor, who had but a short while before exchanged the White House, with all its high honors and severe labors, for...
